HAGUE SWINGS NEW JERSEY TO EISENHOWER

36 Votes Previously Thought To Be for Truman in Convention.

By The Associated Press

New Jersey Democratic leader Frank Hague gave the Eisenhower for-president bandwagon a mighty heave forward yesterday by hitching his state's 36 nominating votes to it.

Most, at least, of the New Jersey votes previously had been counted as in the bag for President Truman. Hague had been on record as a Truman supporter.

Sunday however, the Democratic national committee vice chairman told a caucus of New Jersey party leaders "we feel that we have world leadership in General Eisenhower."

He went on

"We feel that we do not have world leadership either in the President or in the Republican candidate."

Greeted by Ovation

A three-minute ovation greeted his words. Then after Congressman Edward J. Hart and David T. Wilentz, former state attorney general, had added their endorsements, the caucus voted a recommendation that the retired army chief of staff be drafted.

A resolution pledged the 36 New Jersey votes to Eisenhower.

President Truman, enroute to Bolivar, Mo., by train, could not be reached immediately with the New Jersey news.

Chairman J. Howard McGrath of the Democratic national committee and other top party officials also were out of immediate reach.

In Washington, Senator Sparkman (D-Ala) gave the Eisenhower drum another thumping by ticking off 10 reasons why he said it is the general's "duty" to accept the nomination.

Advises Against Haste

Sparkman and other enthusiastic friends of the former Army chief of staff whipped up toward a full sized Eisenhower boom in the national convention next week. But Sparkman told reporters that Democrats shouldn't try to name him if he will refuse to run.

Eisenhower, who previously flattened a similar GOP boom for him by saying he could not accept "nomination to high political office," gave no indication that he will speak out again.

Both Democrats and Republicans hoped anxiously for an unadorned yes or no.

Sparkman said leaders of the Eisenhower draft should get a statement from him before the "movement snowballs to a nomination."

View of GOP Senator

On the Republican side Senator Reed of Kansas said in a separate interview:

"I am convinced Ike is not a candidate and will not be drafted as he told us Republicans."

Reed observed that the time has come for the general to speak up again and say he cannot be drafted.

In the face of his silence, the Eisenhower forces flexed their muscles. There was an outpouring of statements supporting him.

President Truman, claiming enough support to win the nomination on the first ballot, said nothing.

Truman Backer Speaks

But a Truman supporter spoke up. Senator Green of Rhode Island asserted in a statement:

"It is time that Democrats stop to think what a few dissidents and Republican propagandists are seeking to do to the Democratic party.

"The whole purpose of the so-called stop-Truman drive is to split the Democratic party irrevocably."

Sparkman told reporters that if Eisenhower now president of Columbia university does reject Democratic offers it is his guess that Mr. Truman will be nominated.

No Eisenhower Word Likely Before Tuesday

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 5—A spokesman for Columbia university said yesterday that, as far as he knows now Gen. Eisenhower will have nothing to say regarding the draft Eisenhower boom before Tuesday—if he says anything at all.

The spokesman said he had no information that the Columbia president planned any statement whatsoever at any time, regarding talk of making him the Democratic presidential nominee.

The spokesman likewise said he knew nothing of Eisenhower's holiday activities beyond the fact he played golf Saturday and was

Under United Nations supervision representatives of Jews and Arabs meet at a roadside point near Latrun, Palestine, and agree upon a line of demarcation which will make crop harvesting save for both warring sides. DEWEY'S NOW GOP "VOICE"

Taft Turns Job of Party Spokesman Over to Nominee.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 5—Long a leading spokesman for the GOP Senator Taft of Ohio has checked that ticklish job to the presidential nominee, Thomas E. Dewey.

"The spotlight belongs to the winner—Tom Dewey," Taft told a reporter here. "I'm stepping out of it."

For more than a year Taft chairman of the senate GOP policy committee with a powerful voice in important legislation has been widely regarded as the "voice of the GOP." When President Truman and other Democrats blasted at the Republican-controlled congress, usually it was Taft who did the answering for his party.

'But Governor Dewey is the man to do the talking now,' Taft said firmly.

Taft has returned to his home city of Cincinnati with Mrs. Taft for a brief visit. He will return here July 12 and then take off for a long vacation in Canada.

Taft appears fresh and rested after weeks of strenuous congressional activity and his unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination at the Philadelphia convention.

Here are some of his moves for dropping from the limelight:

1. The spacious eight-room offices of the national "Taft-for-president" headquarters near the capitol have been vacated.

2. William McAdams public relations man who spent two years on the Taft campaign is no longer on the senator's staff.

3. Taft will not seek the job of senate floor leader which will be open in January if Republicans retain their majority in that body. Senator White (R-Maine) the present floor leader is quitting the senate.

4. Taft says it's "too early" to think or talk about seeking another senate term. His present term runs two more years.

TWO PRESIDENTS GO TO MISSOURI

By The Associated Press

ABOARD TRUMAN TRAIN EN ROUTE TO BOLIVAR, Mo., July 5—A smiling President Truman took a respite yesterday from the Democratic political warfare to travel to his native Missouri to honor a South American hero.

He spent Independence day aboard his bullet-proof private railroad car with President Romulo Gallegos of Venezuela and other South American leaders en route to Bolivar, Mo.

There Mr. Truman will accept, in behalf of the American people, a statute of Simon Bolivar, the great South American patriot who rescued Venezuela and other Latin American countries from Spanish rule.

President Gallegos will speak at 1:30 p. m. (EST) today. President Truman 15 minutes later.

Mr. Truman is expected to address a gathering at Springfield, Mo., on the return trip, after Gallegos leaves the train to fly to New York.

Construction of Coliseum To Be Started in August

Congruction of Marion's much talked about coliseum to be located at the fairgrounds will begin in August following acceptance by the Marion County Agricultural Society on Aug. 7 of one of 15 contract bids sent out to various contractors in Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Kentucky, Charles Oborn, architect said. Asking of bids followed approval of building plans by the joint building committee and county fair board this week.

As for the building itself it will furnish facilities for virtually all indoor sports according to plans drawn up by Mr. Oborn. The building is to be 333 feet long and 215 feet wide and is to house an arena 212 feet by 92 feet.

Two Cage Courts

This arena will permit two regulation basketball courts, where two games may be played simultaneously if desired, space for an ice show, rodeo, hockey boxing, wrestling, circus, concerts dancing area stage shows auto shows manufacturers exhibit and any other sports program or show.

A 75-foot ramp at the north end of the building will provide means for admitting heavy equipment for a manufacturer's display and a 75 h.p. compressor and 75 h.p. pump will supply adequate power service in the event freezing units are desired for freezing over the main floor.

Four team rooms, lockers and showers, to accommodate 24 persons, sport officials rooms, sports storage rooms, first aid rooms and a banquet hall complete with modern kitchen, which will accommodate 400 persons will be installed.

Big Press Box

A press box which will seat 25 newsmen radio announcers, public address announcers or a movie projector will be built on a balcony running along the east side of the building 37 feet above the main floor. Time keepers, judges officials and persons participating in the particular sporting event will have booths at the edge of the arena on the main floor. A phone system will link the two.

Seating capacity will range from 8,000 for a two-court basketball game to 11,000 for boxing and wrestling, and shows requiring smaller playing areas.

General illumination will consist of 55-foot candle power suspended lights, and provisions will be made for spot lights necessary for stage and boxing shows. Space surrounding the building will probably be of black topping or gravel.

Selection of a coliseum manager will probably be made by agricultural society.

GUNS BURST INTO "HOLY CITY" PEACE

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, July 5—Mortars cannon and machineguns belched fire sporadically for 12 hours Saturday night and yesterday in the first major rupture of the United Nations cease-fire in the Holy City.

A Jewish spokesman said the Arabs began sniping from the walls of the Old City in the area of the Damascus gate late Saturday afternoon and the the Jews returned the fire. The Arabs then opened up with mortars and two-pound cannon in the direction of Jewish lines near the Notre Dame Hospice, the Jewish spokesman said.

A total of eight Jews were wounded four seriously. One Arab woman a patient in the Jewish-held Notre Dame Hospice was shot fatally apparently by an Arab bullet while standing on the hospital balcony.

Three UN observers whose identities were withheld by the UN mission in Jerusalem, were present during the first hours of the shooting but declined to comment. UN headquarters in the King David hotel also declined to comment.

UMW GROUP OK'S NEW COAL PACT

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 5—The United Mine Workers' scale committee yesterday ratified an agreement with anthracite operators calling for a one-dollar-a-day increase for 80,000 miners in hard coal fields.

The agreement also provides for an increase of from 10 to 20 cents per ton in royalties to be paid by the operators into the UMW health and welfare fund.

The agreement between the operators and UMW negotiators was announced Saturday night but details of the new contract were not disclosed then.

The 35-man scale committee's ratification of the contract was announced following a two-hour session at which John L. Lewis, UMW president, and other members of the negotiating committee made their recommendations.

Lewis declined comment on the pact, referring newsmen to Thomas Kennedy, the union's vice president.

PLANES SPEED FOOD CARGOES TO BERLIN AREA

Steady Stream Through Air Answers Soviet Refusal To Lift Blockade.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, July 5—Food-laden American and British planes flew into Berlin by the hundreds yesterday in answer to the Russian refusal to lift the 16-day ground blockade.

American airmen who gave up their Fourth of July holiday to keep the airdrome food supply moving made their biggest effort to date. U. S. planes dropped into the Tempelhof airdrome at a rate of one every three minutes. They had flown 224 flights during the last 24-hour period.

(In London British authorities discounted the likelihood that a formal western power protest against the Russian blockade would be lodged before some time Monday at the earliest. Responsible diplomatic authorities said there has been no agreement as yet on the wording of the protest, which is regarded in London as certain as a result of the refusal of Marshall Vassily D. Sokolovsky Soviet commander in Germany to lift the blockade.

(Sir William Strang head of the British foreign office's German section, U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas, and French Ambassador Rene Massigli remained in constant contact throughout yesterday.

The Americans carried a record cargo of 819 tons yesterday. At noon an additional seven C-54 transport planes went into service, bringing the total number of C-54's on the run to 20. Still more of the giant four-motor planes were enroute to Frankfurt from the U. S. last night.

Crews Get Little Sleep

Brig. Gen. Joseph Smith, commanding the air service, said he was "extremely pleased" with the efforts of both air and ground crews. He said although crews were averaging only four or five hours sleep each day, they were maintaining and flying the planes with maximum efficiency.

The RAF, which keeps a noon-to-noon box score, flew 161 flights up to midday, and also sent four giant Sunderland flying boats from England. The Sunderlands will fly daily from the Elbe river at Hamburg to the Havel, a western Berlin lake. The British hope to boost the Sunderland total to 10 planes.

Berlin Faces Crisis

Although the Western Powers were rapidly expanding the air lift, Berlin itself faced economic paralysis by the extended blockade. The stoppage of coal shipment from the west already had halved western Berlin's industrial output.

The Western Allies are reported to be setting up a plan to fly coal into the city, but the Communist press warned Berliners that a hard winter lies ahead.

To observers direct western power negotiation with Moscow seemed to be the only solution as Berliners looked increasingly to the western powers to take such a step. This seemed especially so since the Soviet commander Marshal Sokolovsky, refused yesterday to tell the western allies when the blockade will be lifted. The Russians have said 'technical difficulties' necessitated the railway shutdown.

Reports circulated today that

"Showdown" Conference Is Called By Yugoslavia

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 5 — Yugoslavia has invited all Communist parties to attend the fifth congress of Yugoslavia's Communist party in Belgrade July 21, Tanjug the official Yugoslav news agency said last night.

Thus, it was felt, Yugoslavia has set the stage for an eastern European showdown on its policies this month.

The invitation was extended only a few hours after Bulgaria bluntly called upon Yugoslavia to say whether it plans to remain in eastern Europe's Communist camp or seek a partnership with the western powers.

The action followed by a day Albania's decision to break off trade relations with Yugoslavia and its demand that Yugoslav economic, cultural and military missions get out of the country.

Only a few days ago the Communist central committee advanced the program it would advocate at the congress, including the formation of a Balkan bloc of Yugoslavia Albania and Bulgaria.

The Savia newspaper, Otecestvenni Front one of the voices of Bulgaria's dominating Communist party led by the pro-war communism head Georgi Dimitrov said yesterday "Yugoslavia cannot remain an isolated island between the two camps (eastern and western Europe)."

"Where will the Yugoslav Communist party place Yugoslavia?" the Bulgarian paper asked.

WORST BRITISH CRASH OCCURS INSIDE CLOUD

Called Most Tragic Disaster in Country's Civil Aviation; Noted Official Killed.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, July 5—Thirty-nine persons, including one American, were killed yesterday in the worst disaster of British civil aviation history—the collision of two four-engined transport planes in a rainstorm over suburban London.

The planes, an RAF transport and a Swedish airliner, crashed and burned with all aboard.

Twenty-five passengers and seven crew members were aboard the Swedish plane on a regular Sunday flight from Stockholm and Copenhagen. It tried in vain to turn back to Amsterdam for a safe landing.

Sir Edward Gent, British high commissioner for the Federation of Malaya, and six Royal Air Force crew members died in the flaming wreckage of the RAF York, developed since the war from bomber designs for civilian use.

Uncertainty over the total number of casualties lasted more than six hours after the crash. The air ministry did not know how many had boarded the York at Malta.

Finally, an air ministry spokesman, who had estimated earlier that there might be 12 aboard, and later said "about a dozen," said it had been established that Gent was the only passenger.

Collide Inside Cloud

The two planes collided with a deafening roar inside a cloud and then plummeted to earth. The Swedish plane landed beside a roadway and the RAF transport crashed into a wooded area.

Scandinavian Airlines System headquarters in Copenhagen announced tonight that Richard Bourger (address unknown), an American, was aboard its plane. The other passengers include one Swiss, one Norwegian and at least four Swedes, the airline said. The remainder of the passengers probably were Danes, it said.

The Swedish plane was operating on schedule of Scandinavian Airlines System in which Swedish, Danish and Norwegian Airlines pooled their operations several months ago.

The RAF plane had been circling the airport for about an hour, waiting for a rift in low clouds, to come in for a landing when the collision occurred.

One man was taken alive from the York but he died within a few minutes.

The passengers and crew members in the RAF plane were jammed forward in the nose and burned beyond recognition, a fireman said. Rescue squads, all hope of rescue gone, worked with acetylene torches as dusk settled to remove the last few bodies.

Pieces of the two planes were scattered over a radius of two miles.

No one saw the shattering col-

Report Bodies of U. S.-Mexican Dead Sighted.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, July 5—A joint Mexican-U. S. commission said yesterday it believed its missing plane with 15 persons aboard had been found wrecked on a volcano peak.

The plane, with eight U. S. citizens aboard, has been missing since Friday on a flight to Mexico City from Minatitlan, near the gulf of Mexico.

The Mexican fbi and mouth disease commission said the plane was believed to have crashed against a slope of 18,225-foot Orizaba peak.

The commission said Gen. Andres Zubieta, commander of the 30th battalion, stationed at Orizaba, reported an Army plane sighted the wreckage in the area. Zubieta said the pilot reported bodies were strewn around the plane which apparently had been burned. The pilot said he saw footprints leading to the plane and away from it.

The commission said the initial report on the plane came from a peasant living in the high mountains who said he heard the crash and explosion and went to investigate. Gen. Zubieta said the pilot's report confirmed that earlier account.

GALION CHILD CENTER HAS NEW HOME DRIVE

GALION, July 5—A drive for funds is being conducted by the Child Care Center, which recently bought the Wisler property at $12,500 for new headquarters. Two of the largest contributions toward the down payment of the home have been a thousand-dollar gift by a local philanthropist, and $500 from Searbrough post, American Legion.

The members of the Child Welfare council which governs the center believe that the project of soliciting funds, now underway, is probably one of the most worthy the city has had for some time.

Children up to 18 years of age are now enrolled in the center. At present there are 49 children enrolled. Nineteen are in the older group, whereas the other 30 are of pre-school age. Mrs. Sara Beagle is supervisor of the center, assisted by her daughter Betty. Mrs. Beagle's son Charles, majoring at OSU in education, had charge of the older children. Two workers at the kitchen, Mrs. Mary Bartholomew and Mrs. Virginia Rhodes complete the staff. The center has work the year around. It is licensed by the state department of welfare.

The Child Welfare council includes Mrs. George Finney, Miss Elizabeth Allwarde, Mrs. Julia Speid, Sam Manning, Mrs. Bruce Smith, Roger Godfrey, Mrs. Beagle, and a representative of the Galion Ministerial association; the schools superintendent attends meetings in an advisory capacity.

LEOMINSTER, Mass.—A [illegible] cat walked more than 400 miles in a month and returned home footsore and [illegible] weary.

Year-old Fluffy, an angora, deserted the [illegible] of the Ben Hamburg family at Hudson, N. Y., while they were moving to a new home at Moore Lake, Wash.

The provincial-minded pussy padded up to the back door of their former home, where neighbors found her mewing sadly. Arrangements were made to forward him to the Hamburgs by air after a rest cure.

Bats usually burrow during the day and feed principally at night.

Brain Tumors Yield To Medical Progress

By The United Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Surgical removal of brain tumors, one of the extremely dangerous operations, now can be performed as successfully as any major surgery elsewhere in the body.

Dr. Howard C. Naffziger professor of neurosurgery at the University of California says improved appliances have been made in the last 25 years.

The percentage of surgically curable tumors is gradually being enlarged.

Dr. Naffziger says brain tumors once considered rare and virtually always fatal constitute two per cent of all cases. Early diagnosis of tumors has been improved greatly by extended use of X-rays and electroencephalography, the use of electrical currents from the brain as indicators of abnormal conditions.

Law Firm Protects War Brides' Rights

DENVER — The British consulate in Denver headed by H. F. Marchant has retained a law firm to protect the legal rights of war brides living in Britain or its dominions concerning divorce suits filed by husbands in the Colorado area.

The firm will concern itself with suits involving women who are British citizens and in which service of summons by publication is authorized.

A spokesman said:

"It is a matter of concern to the British government as it is to fair-minded Americans that the British brides involved shall be accorded fair and considerable treatment."

Service of summons by publication involves use of legal advertisement when the defendant cannot be located by an agent of the court.

"Prepare" Is Advice Of Vocation Expert

PITTSBURGH — Guess-work on their future must be eliminated by young people preparing themselves for a specific vocation, according to Robert E. Grove, Pittsburgh advertising executive.

Describing current aptitude, knowledge and ability tests given students headed for advertising careers, Grove said:

Too many young people prepare themselves for work for which, later experience reveals, they are unsuited. Too late they find that they would have been more successful in another line."

Grove said all young people "should be provided with a means by which they can determine their aptitude and knowledge for work which they hope to follow."

Current tests sponsored by the American Association of Advertising Agencies are an effort to help beginners looking toward an advertising career, Grove said.

NOT A LASTING JOB

By The United Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—When Mrs. M. T. Weems returned to her automobile after a ball game she found a sign on the windshield saying "your car needs painting." Mrs. Weems looked at the name of the firm advertising. It was the one that had painted her car less than 30 days before.

BRITISH LIMBLESS VETS DRIVE AUTOS

By International News Service

LONDON — Disabled veterans in Britain can now drive ordinary cars as safely and easily as any other motorist on the road. This has been made possible by a remarkable set of equipment developed by a group of automobile manufacturers in Britain.

Because of this invention limbless exservicemen need rely no longer on limited car models specially designed for them.

The equipment — a series of combination controls — is the result of one year of concentrated research. It enables nine different types of amputees using artificial limbs to drive any of the two popular models made by the manufacturers.

At the same time since the equipment supplements normal driving controls the disabled veterans car can still be driven in the ordinary fashion. Britain has 360 thousand disabled veterans and America has over one million.

The principal on which the new equipment works is that the controls are "power assisted" by means of a servo vacuum motor so that manual operations are cut to a minimum.

Since the system supplies energy proportionate to the physical effort normally made by hand or foot not only is fatigue cut to a minimum but there is also smooth control under all conditions.

Tried by R.A.F. Veteran

A former R. A. F. Squardron Leader who lost both legs in the Battle of Britain, C. G. S. Hodgkinson recently tried out the new control system as a demonstration. Just 20 minutes after he first stepped inside it he was driving through the heart of London in heavy noon hour traffic without a bit of trouble.

Even men who have never driven a car before can learn easily with this equipment. After a few lessons they can handle it as well as the experienced motorist.

Any number of four special controls can be fitted on the current model to suit a particular amputee's disability.

(1) Combined hand throttle and clutch: this is shaped to take two fingers of the right hand and is vacuum servo powered. Lifting the lever towards the steering wheel operates the clutch. Rotating it opens the throttle.

(2) Brake control: this control is also vacuum servo assisted and moves approximately 20 degrees in rotation with the steering wheel. Lifting it towards the steering wheel operates the brakes.

Combined Brake and Clutch

(3) Combined foot-brake and clutch: the standard brake pedal lever has been modified and fitted with an extension hinged in the center. The lower portion of the pedal is connected to the vacuum-servo motor and the clutch, and is operated by the driver's right foot. The top portion of the pedal is used by his toe to operate the brakes.

(4) Combined clutch and brake: A modification similar to No. 3 has been carried out so that the lower portion of the pedal, powered by vacuum-servo, operates the brakes by means of the driver's left heel while the top portion operates the clutch by means of the driver's toe.

Added to these controls, every disabled driver's car is fitted with a vacuum-servo pressure gauge. This denotes the pressure in the reserve vacuum tank. The dial is luminous so that it can be read in the dark, enabling the amputee to drive as easily by night as by day.

No More Precious Shrine

To those of us who believe in freedom and democracy and the basic equality and brotherhood of man, there is no building in America more precious, more sacred, more revered, than Independence Hall.

Here the declaration of Independence was signed. Here the Liberty Bell — veritable symbol of independence — is enshrined. Here, God willing, Americans may come forever to gaze with reverent awe upon the birthplace of our nation . . . and to meditate upon those high ideals for which millions of Americans have fought, and for which hundreds of thousands of Americans have died.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"YES, I mean exactly that," Olga told Mary. "Philip is used to estimating measurements you know, so I am sure he will make no mistake in the costumes he will bring back for you and for darling Faith."

Whee! Mary exclaimed. "Can you imagine the kick Faith is going to get about being garbed in court dress like a little princess?" But she added loyally, "no princess that ever lived — and I hope you won't take this amiss, Lena—could ever top Faith in looks and sang froid."

"Especially the latter," I said a bit grimly. "She'll probably ask to have some alteration made in the costume if I don't get to her first."

"Why shouldn't she?" Olga demanded, for she also is a prejudiced partisan of my small daughter. "And I agree with you thoroughly, Mary, except in your doubt that I might not approve your dictum."

"Oh, that was just thrown in for seasoning," Mary said airily. "I know your attitude toward Faith. If it didn't suit me, I'd have wicked you on the nose long ago. Excuse me, ladies. I won't talk that way any more."

Olga smiled at her, and then turned to me.

"You approve this costume for dear little Faith, I hope," she said.

"Of course," I said heartily. "Faith will adore it, and I think her father and I will greatly enjoy seeing her in it."

"Not any more than I will," Olga said. "But it is too bad that her grandmother will not be able to see her."

"Here's one time I'm going to defy the United States government, the F. B. I. and the diplomatic corps," Mary said vehemently. "I'm going to smuggle a camera out there and take a picture of Faith if Grandpa Spencer sends me to the guillotine the next minute."

"He is more apt to pin a decoration on you," I said dryly, "if you present him with one of the photographs. You do your own developing, don't you?"

Noel does," she said with an impish grin. "So there's no possible chance of any leak."

"Then that is settled," Olga said. "Now to the next question."

She hesitated for a fraction of a second, a gesture rare in Olga, who always goes directly to her subject. Then she turned to me.

"My daughter has told me of her choice of matron of honor, and of flower girl," she said, "and also of your wonderful idea of having Noel play during the ceremonies. Of course, as you already have seen, that leaves no possible choice for Georges's best man but Mr. K., your father's F. B. I. aide. Philip will give Olga away."

"Now the formalities' costumes are arranged," she went on, "Philip"—did I imagine that her lips twitched ever so slightly—"will not object to wearing a court costume. But what about Mr. K.? Is there anything in his secret orders which would prevent his wearing an officer's uniform similar to that of Georges?"

I almost choked at that query, for I could visualize the ironic gleam in Mr. K.'s eyes when he realized that he was expected to deck himself in a gorgeous uniform glittering with orders such as Georges was planning to wear.

But I flattered myself that my facial muscles had not betrayed my secret mirth, and I tried to infuse my answer with an air of sincere interest.

"The members of the F. B. I. never wear uniforms. I said. "They have none. But of course they put on all sorts of disguises whenever they have need of them. With my father, his superior officer, possibility of his wearing the finer in the house, and when in uniform, getting to the envy of his colleagues, I see no reason why he could not wear it if duty and approves. But you may be very sure, my father will not direct him what to wear. If he does wear the uniform, it will be because he wishes to conform to the sartorial rules for the occasion."

THINK U.S. CONTROL OF STEEL WILL WAIT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 5.—The consensus of the steel industry is that mandatory government controls of steel provided for in a rider to the new draft act will not be invoked before the November election, Steel magazine said today.

"If there is a change in administrations," the magazine continued, and "provided there is no sudden international crisis," imposition of the controls might be delayed indefinitely.

An upward revision of steel prices is expected soon, but probably will not be general until U. S. Steel corp. acts, the article said. With the price hike may come adoption of an F.O.B. mill pricing basis, the magazine added. "In view of the Federal Trade commission's recent successes in attacks on multiple basing points and delivered prices."

Steel ingot production last week totaled about 1,718,000 tons, down one point to 95 per cent of capacity. The drop was caused largely by 11 per cent decline to 85.5 per cent in the Wheeling district where Wheeling Steel Co's Benwood, W. Va., works shut down and Wierton, W. Va., reduced its output slightly.

In spite of a 5 to 10 per cent price hike by leading refractory brick producers, the magazine's arithmetical composite of steel prices showed no change from the previous week.

THIS IS OUR FINE HERITAGE

Let us guard it well, for there are malevolent forces at work to wrest it from us. They might continue to hail it as an American document—even perpetuate its parchment under glass. But they would destroy its very meaning; distort it with instruments to smother all freedom; cripple our right to liberty; and make our observance of anniversaries such as this Independence Day — a thing of the past.

The Consent of the Governed

THERE are many fine ways to celebrate Independence Day. One of the outgrowths of the inalienable rights proclaimed in 1776 is the privilege of infinite latitude of choice. No American is required to become one unit in a faceless mass of humanity packed into a red square on the anniversary of the nation's founding.

The Declaration of Independence happened a long time ago. It's a fair bet that 90 per cent of its beneficiaries are unfamiliar with what it says after the opening statement. But that isn't important. The text even in 1776 was only the manifestation of a spiritual uprising that swept the civilized world like a prairie fire.

It burned out once and for all the belief then widely held that despotism had to be endured because it had supernatural sanction. It did not eliminate despotism itself, which continues to be practiced wherever and whenever despots can get away with it, but it destroyed the myth of sanction which had kept men in abject slavery for thousands of years.

It replaced the myth with the truth that the only just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed. That truth has been the main obstacle to despotism since 1776. It is still the most progressive concept of government in the world today—the ultimate rebuttal to all the mouthings of dictatorship, the thing most feared by governments holding themselves in power by terror—the hope most cherished by all victims of the cult of compulsion.

Among the many fine ways of celebrating Independence Day, one of the finest is to re-read the Declaration of Independence. The language is old-fashioned and the persons referred to are mellowed by the dim light of history, but the issue involved is still being fought—the right of men to be masters of their own lives, not the slaves of a despot's will.

Rice Shortage

A DISPATCH from Tokyo says the world rice shortage will continue several more years. The item is worth only a few lines in American papers, but it's serious news to Asiatic peoples.

Rice being a modest item in the American diet, we sometimes forget that the majority of the earth's peoples are rice eaters. Prewar world production was 7,000,000,000 bushels a year. Burma, Siam, Indo-China, Malaya and the Philippines were the great exporters, making up the deficits of other sections of the Orient. But now the population of these countries is growing so fast that exports will be cut 50 per cent or more. That means many will continue to do without the pound of rice a day considered essential for an ample diet in the Orient.

The situation would be even worse except for the invention of a young Persian-American in California who perfected a process for steam-treating rice to seal vitamins from the bran into the kernel, adding 25 per cent to its food value. In the West, it has merely made rice less attractive to rodents; in the Orient it will ease the severity of the shortage.

With Strings Attached

ONE of the least probable meetings of minds between Dwight Eisenhower and the sometimes Democrats hoping he may be persuaded to pull their chestnuts out of the fire is on the matter of public policy. There are many strings attached to the Democratic nomination in 1948.

The southern Democrats anxious to get rid of Mr. Truman because he has offended them on civil rights would expect a substitute as a matter of course to take sides with them on that issue.

The left-of-center crowd thumping the tub for the Eisenhower candidacy would expect the general to see all issues cheek by jowl with them—planned economy, confiscatory taxation, paternalism and all the rest of it.

Each faction of the quarreling coalition whose inability to get along with one another is the source of Mr. Truman's political woes would want his successor to go down the line for its pet cause. It goes without saying that the successor, whoever he might be, soon would be as unpopular with the factions as Mr. Truman himself has become. He is only the result, not the cause, of the inability of the shattered elements of the New Deal coalition to get along with one another in the absence of Franklin D. Roosevelt's ability to pull them through to victory in four presidential elections.

Tito Attack Further Evidence of Russian Domination

THE significance of the Tito attack by the cominform is not what happens to Tito but the further evidence it provides that Soviet imperialism has forced nations of Europe and Asia to become colonies, to abdicate their own sovereignty and to accept the overlordship of an alien state, even to the extent of the suzerain dictating the form and personnel of government. American apologists for Soviet Russia will find it difficult to associate such an operation with Democracy, even with their definition of democracy.

SOKOLSKY

The cominform is the third international as reconstituted after the war. While the fighting war was on, Stalin gave the appearance of abolishing the Third International to make it easier for President Roosevelt to sell friendship for Russia to the American people. Actually, the Third International was not and could not be abolished because it is the central apparatus not only of world revolutism but of Soviet imperialism.

There have been four internationals to date. The first, the Workingmen's Association, organized by Karl Marx in 1864. Marx moved this international from London to New York in order to kill it when Bakunin and his followers contested Marx's personal supremacy. Subsequently, a second international was organized in Paris in 1889 by Socialists. This tended to become an apparatus for propaganda for what in time became right wing socialism, such as Norman Thomas, the "new leader," the Rand school and similar individuals and groups advocate in this country, and the Fabians advocate in England. It is a go-slow, non-revolutionary socialism which rejects even temporary dictatorship and adheres to political democracy.

Hated Socialists

When Lenin organized the Third International in 1919, he showed violent hatred for the second international, so much so that it was possible to say that a Communist hates a Socialist more than he does a capitalist. Their internecine quarrels do not concern most of us who are opposed to the general Marxist position; but this is important, namely, that the Third International came to be totally and completely under the control of Soviet Russia. It became its organ for world revolution. When Germany, Italy, and Japan formed the axis, they did not refer to it as anti-Russian but anti-cominternism—that is, opposed to the Third International. It was a defense against this revolutionary agency.

Leon Trotzky, when he was in refuge in Mexico, attempted to organize the fourth international. What he might have done with that, it is impossible to say, since he was brutally murdered by one of Stalin's agents. However, the term, Trotzkyism, continues in Soviet terminology in the sense that every Communist who, for whatever reason, opposes Stalin is ipso facto termed a Trotzkyist and therefore is excommunicated automatically and is subject to death. Anyone who murders a Trotzkyist is a national hero among Communists, who condone murder if it is in a good cause.

New Cominform

Now the cominform has been organized to take the place of the Third International. Its master mind is Andrei A. Zhdanov, Stalin's deputy and possibly his successor. The cominform differs from the comintern because whereas the latter was a revolutionary and propagandistic organ, the former actually holds a number of nations in thrall. It is more like a combination of a revolutionary organization, a colonial office and an inquisition. It is the principal Russian agency for weakening other nations and holding those affiliated to it in line.

Tito fell afoul of the cominform when he attempted to organize and conduct Yugoslavia as a national state and when he sought to arrange for a second slav power with Yugoslavia at its head. In a word, he sought to build according to classical European nationalism. This concept Soviet Russia has rejected from the start, the Russians maintaining that all member-states of the cominform are subject to Kremlin control.

Tito is the first of those heads of states to be attacked for disgraceful unorthodoxy by Soviet Russia. The next will probably be Georgi Dimitrov of Bulgaria, who for many years headed the Third International and who is nevertheless a Bulgarian first. The discipline of the Kremlin is an iron knout.

Coming Back Like a Song

By Harry L. McCrea

I KEEP tuning in music on the radio that makes it seem more like 1932 than 1948. Songs that Rudy Vallee used to intone through a megaphone turn up in lush new arrangements with gobs of filigree work for violins and horns.

Ballads that Frank Munn, Ruth Etting, Helen Morgan, the Silver Masked Tenor and Veronica Wiggins used to sing come marching down the halls of time to take another bow. The records of the late Russ Columbo are in style again.

Why this renascence of slightly shopworn sentimental ditties? Is there a dearth of acceptable new songs? This hardly seems likely, for there seem to be about as many new songs being published, no better, no worse than those of past years.

Is it cheaper to republish old ones? This isn't likely. Virtually all that are enjoying new popularity are still under copyright and are returning new profits to their composers or their heirs and assigns.

It's probably a combination of circumstances that explains the popularity of these old songs:

First, they provide a sentimental journey for those now on the middle span of years. The songs make them remember the days when their arches didn't ache when they danced until 2 a. m.; the days when nothing was homogenized and four three smackers you could have yourself an evening in the large economy size; the days when there was nothing more complex than a depression to face, and nobody had heard of a song stylist.

Next, to a goodly segment of the population that listens most to popluar tunes, these old songs are new, just as Al Jolson was a new theatrical personality to many when he made his comeback.

Next, the wear and tear on a popular song is harder today than ever before. Many radio stations are on the air continuously and require a large backlog of music upon which to draw. After all, you wouldn't want to hear "Nature Boy" every hour on the hour, would you? So, the old songs are being revived to provide for your listening pleasure, as the radio announcers say.

I don't believe a very thorough job has been done of searching the archives for tunes worth a revival. The only songs being revived are the hits of yesteryear.

There are many songs which enjoyed limited popularity in the late 1920's and early '30's because of copyright restrictions which prevented their being broadcast. You may recall that for years radio announcers had to list the titles of songs broadcast by special permission of the copyright owners. Well, copyright owners often didn't give permission for the broadcasting of their best songs. Today that permission could be had for a song.

20 Million Tons of Steel Lost

From Steel Facts

NEARLY 20,000,000 tons of raw steel have been lost as a result of major strikes since the beginning of 1946, according to the latest available figures. In terms of finished products, that amount is nearly equivalent to all the steel supplied to the automobile industry in both 1946 and 1947.

The huge total includes more than 1,600,000 tons of ingots lost in March, April and May of this year, a penalty of the spring walkout of coal miners.

More than 42 per cent of the loss this spring occurred after the miners had agreed to return to work. First, coal had to be loaded at the mines and transported to coke ovens. Then many other steps had to be taken, all of which required additional time, before the operations of blast furnaces, open hearth furnaces and other facilities could be restored.

The 20,000,000-ton figure is computed by comparing operations week by week during the strikes and walkouts with the averages preceding the stoppages. However, not all of the indirect losses incurred in regaining pre-strike levels can be included in the total.

Preceding the spring walkout of coal miners, steel furnaces were being operated at 87.5 per cent of capacity, and were producing 1,757,400 tons of steel per week. During the walkout production declined to 71.3 per cent of capacity, equal to 1,285,200 tons. Three weeks after the announced settlement operations had climbed back to only 91 per cent of capacity.

Some companies dipped heavily into their coal reserves during the walkout in the spring. The rebuilding of coal stockpiles was expected to be slow.

The latest walkout hit at the steel industry's attempts to set a new steel production record this year. In 1947 the industry produced approximately 84,784,000 tons of steel, an amount greater than ever before in peacetime. With additional capacity in operation in 1948, it was expected that this year's output would be greater than in 1947, and so far toward restoring the balance between supply and demand for those steel products which have been most eagerly sought.

Collects Bells

By The United Press

NEWPORT, R. I.—Collecting bells from all over the world is the hobby of the Rev. Edward A. Higney, 80, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church.

Father Higney began his collecting some 85 years ago with the 50-cent purchase of a small hand bell in Gibraltar. He added another in Paris and after he had bought a third one in Quebec, word circulated that he was a bell collector.

Since then he hasn't paid for a single chime and has received more than 300 bells as gifts from friends, relatives and strangers throughout the world.

Kill or Cure Medicine for German Inflation

Old Money Worthless, So It's Replaced With Something

AS THE Western Powers had expected, Russia has tossed a wrench into the machinery of the currency reform that went into effect in western Germany last Sunday.

Immediately after a Big Four meeting to seek agreement on a unified Germany currency broke up in a deadlock, the Russians proclaimed a new currency system for the Soviet zone of Germany and greater Berlin.

This ended the hope that finance chiefs of Russia and the Western Allies might agree on a single currency for all of Germany. It ended a still more important hope—that Russia might be persuaded to return to an attitude of cooperation in Germany.

It had been made plain in advance of last Sunday's reform that the Western Powers would go ahead with their plan for a unified Germany despite Russian objections and that the plan entailed reform of the currency system. Russia opposed both unification and money reform—and now has taken another step to widen the breach between it and the Western Powers.

No one questions that the repercussions of money reform in western Germany will be on a major scale. If the reform works it will mean less taxes for Americans, Britons and Frenchmen to pay for the support of Germany.

It will mean more coal, steel and German production to aid European recovery.

For the Germans it will mean more food, more consumer goods, better jobs and a stable economy.

If the reform fails—as Russia apparently is hoping it will—there will be a repetition of morale-shattering unproductive barter. While the decision hangs in the balance, there will be social upheaval and temporary unemployment for perhaps a million Germans.

FIRST effect of the reform will be to hasten a showdown with "cigaret currency"—the economic ruler of war-torn Germany. Ever since the war, a package of cigarets, a single cigaret, or even the butt of a smoked cigaret have had more purchasing power than money. With cigarets a German could buy anything from a loaf of bread to diamonds. With currency he was lucky if he could buy anything.

The idea of reform is that the Germans have been hoarding goods, food and necessities rather than sell them for currency that might become valueless.

Therefore, all uncertainty was eliminated as of last Sunday by replacing the old inflated reichsmark with a new deutsche mark at a rate making the new currency extremely valuable.

As of last Sunday, every German had 40 of the new marks—nobody more, nobody less. Later, everybody but black marketeers will be able to cash in their old marks for a still unknown number of new marks.

Because there are so few of the new marks in circulation, everybody is going to want to get as many of them as possible. The Western Europe Powers believe this will bring hoarded goods into the open. Shopkeepers are going to want to put on their best show to attract customers, business firms to make their best offers, employes to do their best to hold their jobs.

UP TO now, goods have been scarce and money dirt cheap. If the reform works, goods will be plentiful and money expensive.

Wages will probably remain the same so everybody is going to be counting his pennies before he starts buying luxuries.

This probably will mean some early unemployment. Public bodies, which now operate with huge staffs, may slice them in half, because less taxes will be coming in. Some states now have ministries as large as Hitler's governmental setup.

Postwar bureaucratic mammoths like the state railways may lay off hundreds of workers. They now employ 22 men for every kilometer (.621 of a mile) against seven per mile in the United States.

Even the U. S. army—now that it has to pay 30 cents a mark—is expected to cut its German employes.

If Germans cannot pay huge prices for cigarets and use them to barter, then the black marketeer of cigarets is likely to wind up in the Ruhr mines doing something useful. There are plenty of vacancies.

That is what the Allies hope will happen.

Bags Eagles by Air

MILES CITY, Mont. — Ever shoot an eagle from an airplane?

Pilot-gunners are making money at the sport in eastern Montana. The state pays a $5 bounty for each of the predatory birds which have been killing antelopes and game birds.

Game wardens reported that A. R. Tatgs bagged 78 golden eagles in two aerial hunting expeditions worth $390 to him.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Letters for Special Delivery

MR CHRIS JANUS
72 Wall Street, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Janus:

I see by the papers that you now own Adolf Hitler's armored car a Mercedes-Benz and that you intend to use it yourself. Well, it's pretty hard to get autos today and we have to take what we can find, but I am afraid you will not find riding in der fuehrer's old car any too comfortable. I think you will be hearing voices. Goebbels, Goering and other Nazi notables used to ride in that bus and they are hard to get out of the upholstery.

PHILLIPS

You know how arbitrary those crumbums were, and every time you slow down in passing a school you will hear a guttural "Ach, full speed ahead!" Whenever you come to a red light you will hear "Such foolishment! Stop for nothing!" The "they can't do this to me" mood will permeate that boiler, I am afraid.

Also now are you going to feel in Adolf Hitler's limousine when you toot for a GI in a jeep to move over? Huh?

Can anybody feel cosy in that bus approaching an American Legion building, a Soldier's Monument or the Hero List on a village green? I'm just asking.

Mr. Janus, my boy, I feel certain that you will not like der fuehrer's chariot. There is bound to be a certain aroma in it and I don't mean just the aroma of Nazi speeches and maybe a stray pair of paperhanger's overalls.

• • •

You will find a lot of funny sounds in it. You may think they are body squeaks, but they really will be the echoes of Hitler tirades and rebuttals by Goering. No matter how often you go over the motor you will not be able to get all the swastikas out of the valves. It is bound to be a very noisy car. How could it be otherwise? Even with Hitler dead three or four years we still can hear him.

• • •

I do not see anything wrong in putting such a car to uses of pleasure, Mr. Janus, and I hope you enjoy it. I am only saying that it will offer handicaps to complete ease of mind out in the great open spaces. Even on a weekend, over the peaceful hills and dales of America, there will be moments when you will think that in it are the spirits of Nazi warlords who once plotted death, misery, and destruction on its soft upholstery—that this bus once roared over the German roads with blueprints for blitzes.

I wouldn't ride in it even on high pay. So don't invite me. And I hope the horn has no imperious toot.

Yours,
ELMER.

Fit for a Dog

By TRUMAN TWILL

Every man knows deep in his heart that he could be a first-rate cook with a little practice. The problem is how to get the practice with a bunch of critical females hanging around making wisecracks and wringing their hands.

The writer is one of millions of frustrated chefs who could have had a brilliant career in the kitchen with a little practice, except for camping trips, when the customers had no choice but to eat or starve, opportunities for practice were limited to rare occasions when the lady of the house was absent—and these were always failures because the consumers made it known they preferred to eat in restaurants, not realizing what they were missing.

But a new kind of opportunity has presented it. If. Various female members of the establishment having tried their cooking skill on the problem of feeding the family dogs at inflated food prices without success, there was no objection to letting the ranking male member on the premises show what real culinary skill could do with makeshift ingredients.

A delectable concoction was thrown together on the sound premise that the w.. to make a dog enthusiastic about budget-saving meals is to give him what a man would eat if the man were a dog. This is the reasoning that fishermen use in offering fish what they, t.. fishermen, would bite on if they were the fish.

A little of this and a little of t' t were added to the mess. Then a little more of that and a pinch of something else. The younger members of the household were kind enough to say at one point that it compared favorably with the budget-saver the family was having for dinner, but they erred on the side of caution. It was better. It was irresistible.

But not to the dogs. Their noses wrinkled, their tails drooped and they walked away. As far as they were concerned, it was just one more failure. It was still a failure 24 hours later. The dogs had not read in the book where it says to keep putting out the same thing until the dogs are hungry enough to eat it. They should be that hungry.

Another mess was assembled, this one toothsome enough to tempt any man in a dog's frame of mind. Same result. It was resistible. The cook could have it.

In the meantime, the cook is getting lots of practice. If the dogs can't be converted, there's always a job waiting in a restaurant looking for a cook who knows how to cook a meal fit for a dog. On second thought, it might be easier to send the dogs to the restaurant, choosing one that already has proved it knows how to cook a meal fit for a dog. Then the meals fit for a king that the dogs won't eat could be consumed by the people and everybody would be fat and happy ever after.

Blood Pressure

NOWADAYS when there is so much interest in off-balance blood pressure it would be a good thing if more people could realize that blood-pressure, whether high or low, is not a constant affair. All kinds of things affect it even in the normal person and it varies from age to age, race to race and even from season to season. It is not possible to set an exact figure and say blood pressures either reasonably above or below it are out of kilter. Instead of being one figure normal rates fall in a certain range.

However blood pressure is usually considered to be low when it falls below 100. This type of reaction can be expected when there are disturbances in the heart and blood vessels but it often occurs when these are both normal. Indeed where low blood pressure is concerned it is often difficult to determine just what is causing it.

Doctors usually divide the low blood pressure into two groups one called secondary low blood pressure and the other primary.

The secondary low blood pressure may be due to failure of the circulation. It may follow a severe injury or bleeding. It may develop in severe attacks of pneumonia and typhoid fever. Diseases which last a long time and are disabling or weakening, such as tuberculosis of the lung, or cancer are often associated with low blood pressure. It also develops in starvation and in severe loss of weight from other causes.

Loss of Fluids

It may also occur when there is loss of large amounts of fluids from the body, as in severe diarrhea. Lack of certain glandular secretions such as those from the thyroid or the pituitary gland as well as from the adrenal glands located over the kidneys may be accompanied by a drop in the blood pressure. Heart disease is not often a cause of low pressure but it may develop in coronary thrombosis or blocking of the circulation to the heart muscle.

Primary low blood pressure is found in the absence of any of the diseases mentioned above. It seems to occur in about three to four out of every 100 healthy persons. Its causes is not known.

Perfect Health

A person with low blood pressure may seem to be in perfect health. It is more common in those who are tall and slender. A person with low blood pressure may have such symptoms as exhaustion, headache, dizziness, and constipation.

In general low blood pressure is no cause for great concern. Sometimes the low blood pressure is just a part of a person's natural physical and mental makeup.

Another type of low blood pressure is called orthostatic hypotension. In this condition, the blood pressure is normal when the patient lies down but drops when he abruptly stands up. This may be accompanied by a short period of dizziness and, in rare cases even by fainting. The symptoms disappear when the person lies down again. Exercises may help to correct the condition in most cases. In occasional instances good results can be obtained if the patient sleeps with the head raised about 18 inches. It is also helpful to give a diet rich in salt.

Low blood pressure is not as a general rule, a cause for any great concern unless it is accompanied by distressing symptoms. But a doctor should always be consulted to find the cause.

Questions and Answers

M. W. Is there anything that can be done about enlarged veins? The veins from my elbow down to my hands have been getting so big.

Answer. Enlarged veins in a location such as the arms usually should not be treated by injection as are enlarged veins in the legs. Perhaps massage would be of some slight benefit.

As long as the circulation to these veins is normal, there is no cause for concern.

PLANE CRASH

sion of the two huge planes and no one lived to tell the story

Dr A Drucker whose home is near Northolt said "There was a deafening crash I saw one plane crash to the ground The there was a blinding sheet of flame

The two sky giants hit the ground a mile and a half apart Crash crews and fire engines reached both in a matter of minutes but they could not cope with the searing gasoline flames even with chemical foam extinguishers

The area around Northolt is as thickly settled as northern New Jersey or the suburbs of Chicago but both planes fell in clumps of woods No one was hurt by falling wreckage Cash [illegible] collected a woman's handbag here and a coat of clothing there Firemen were still playing hoses on the smouldering wreckage last night

Investigation Ordered

Shortly after 3 p m (EST) the [illegible] of civil aviation announced 37 bodies had been recovered It ordered an official investigation of the collision

Airport officials said the evidence indicates the two planes met at an angle and one sheared off the tail assembly They did not know which plane struck the other They said the York's fuselage fell intact while the Swedish plane appeared to have been shattered in the air

(In Stockholm P A Norlin president of Scandinavian Airlines System said there is no evidence the accident was caused by the Swedish plane or its crew)

The Swedish plane had just messaged the airport it was turning back to Amsterdam for a landing when the crash occurred apparently as it was in the act of turning back

The crash was the first major air disaster in the British Isles since March when 30 were killed in a Pan-American plane at Shannon Eire and 20 in a Belgian Sabena Airlines crash at London airport

Many Homeward Bound

Pathetic evidence of homecomings from far places was scattered around the York's wreckage Airport officials said they believed all aboard were men including Gent and several others coming home from the Middle East and Far East

In the debris were handbags women slippers and other items apparently brought as gifts

Gent's arrival in London had been anxiously awaited both here and in Singapore as likely to bring new developments in the situation in Malaya swept by riots which the British say are Communist-led

Gent 53 a veteran of more than 20 years in the British colonial service became governor of the Malay states after the war Early this year with the institution of increased self-government under a new statute his title was changed to high commissioner for the federation of Malaya

On June 14 shortly after the outbreak of rioting and murders in which more than 50 estate owners and other prominent British and Chinese citizens of Malaya have been slain he declared a state of emergency Among other things this reinstated the death penalty for illegal possession of firearms

The riots were not quelled Last week it was announced Gent had been called home for "consultations" Informed foreign office sources said later he would not return and would be relieved of his post The colonial office up to last night had not confirmed this

Gent a veteran of World War I was married with two sons and two daughters He had risen to assistant secretary of state in the colonial service before his promotion in 1946 to the Malayan governorship

following the failure of the occupation commanders in Berlin Saturday to break the Russian blockade of the city there was no doubt that the United States Britain and France would make direct demands on Moscow to end the setup A note was expected to be delivered within a matter of hours This was to be not only a demand but a grave warning to the Russians about the seriousness of their actions at Berlin

The state department was reported by foreign diplomat informants here to have arranged a meeting on Tuesday with the ambassadors of Britain France Belgium the Netherlands and Luxembourg The plan is said to be to discuss measures aimed at eventually providing American military support for the western European bloc State department officials flatly declined to confirm or deny the conference They did say that Secretary of State Marshall was scheduled not to be in his office on Tuesday so that it appeared likely that the session would be held with Undersecretary of State Lovett

The Communist press over Yugoslavia had produced what the state department terms the weekend's decision on temporary policy to avert the crack Communist harmony in eastern Europe The decision was to sit tight and see what happens before offering any help to Marshal Tito in his back to the wall stand against domination by the Soviet Union In fact it seemed almost certain that if any western power hand was to be stretched out to Tito he would have to make the initial bid for help and even if he did so his overtures would be studied most cautiously

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK July 5—James A Farley said yesterday he would support President Truman for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention and predicted Truman would get the nomination.

The Electoral College and How It Figures in Truman Problem

BY NEAL STEBAN HILL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON—Southern Democratic leaders angry at President Truman's "civil rights" proposals threaten to win their states' electoral votes to defeat Mr Truman in the November election—if he is the Democratic candidate.

To see what this means you first have to know what the Electoral College is and how it works.

The Electoral College system is a strange thing Under it the next president could win even if he got fewer votes than his opponent.

The Constitution says the president must be chosen by a group of "qualified" men known as electors. These men make up the Electoral College.

The college meets after the election. Its only job is to choose the president. The votes of the electors make the election "official."

Each state has as many electors as it has senators and representatives in Congress. There are 96 senators (two from each state) and 435 representatives in all.

Choosing Electors

A state can choose its electors any way it wants to. In most states the names of the electors appear on the ballot. There are usually two lists. The Republicans have one and the Democrats have one. Generally the electors are listed under the name of the candidate they will vote for.

In other states, the electors' names aren't even printed on the ballots. But no matter how obscure these electors may be, the United States can't have a president without them.

After the electors cast their "official" votes, the ballots are sealed and sent to the president of the Senate in Washington.

The votes are counted and recorded at a joint session of the Senate and House. Until that's done the election isn't legal.

In every state, the candidate who wins the most popular votes wins all the electoral votes from that state. Because of this, a candidate could be elected president even though he won only 13 states.

Pennsylvania, Illinois, California, Missouri, Kentucky Indiana, New York, New Jersey Massachusetts, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

These dozen states have 160 electoral votes, a majority in the Electoral College. Even if a candidate wins the other 38 states and has a majority of the popular votes, he loses the presidency.

'Minority' Presidents

Three times in U S history presidents have gone into the White House with fewer popular votes than their opponents.

The first was in 1824. Andrew Jackson won more electoral votes than John Quincy Adams. But he lacked a majority since there was a third candidate In such cases the law requires that the House choose the winner by simple majority, with each state casting one vote. Adams was elected.

The House once elected a president because the electoral vote was tied. Thomas Jefferson was chosen over Aaron Burr.

In 1876 Rutherford B. Hayes lost the popular vote majority but won the presidency from Samuel Tilden with a majority of the electoral vote.

Grover Cleveland beat Benjamin Harrison the same way in 1884.

Southerners' Position

The southern Democrats fighting Mr Truman say they can refuse to cast the electoral votes from their solidly Democratic southern states. This might guarantee the election of a Republican president or throw the election into the House of Representatives.

These southern states control a block of 13 electoral votes Without them no Democrat could hope to be elected.

There has been many and frequent suggestions in Congress that the Electoral College be done away with But the Constitution would have to be changed to do this, and changing the Constitution is a slow progress.

Illness Overcome By Public Official

By International News Service

CARNESVILLE, Ga. — A 42-year-old semi-invalid who drove himself into politics "to face people" today is treasurer of both Franklin County and the city of Carnesville, Ga.

J. W. Carroll was crippled by an attack of infantile paralysis at the age of 25. For four years he was bed ridden. Today a well known and respected public official, Carroll is in his 11th year treasurer of Franklin County.

He walks about the courthouse with the aid of a cane. One of his arms remains helpless but the other is strong, and he isn't given to brooding.

Carroll says:

"I once believed I would never walk again. I was helpless. One day the doctor said I would be able to walk again if I made up my mind not to be afraid of my condition."

Carroll made up his mind. He decided to face people and to help them. He has, and he's a success.

Piles Are Never "Mild"
DANGER IN NEGLECT
No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.
Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.
Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, billiousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.
Removal of piles is the only permanent relief written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.
Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Behind the scenes of every telephone company is a vital worker you seldom hear about — the maintenance man. During the war when new equipment was unobtainable, the telephone maintenance man worked miracles with old, discarded equipment. Today his magic fingers are constantly busy, working to keep our ever-expanding facilities in perfect order.

If there is one man in the telephone system who rates a big hand — he is the maintenance man.

SEE SIGNS OF NEW RED BASE IN SIAM

By The Associated Press

MANILA July 5—A new base for Communist activity in south east Asia appears to be taking shape in Bangkok storybook capital of Siam

This is the interpretation that most qualified observers put on the arrival of a large Russian delegation of more than 40 persons to establish Russia's first legation in Siam

"There are not more than 10 Soviet officials in all Siam," a Stanvac official told this correspondent who has just returned to Manila from Bangkok

"So you see they are sure to have at least four diplomats to represent each citizen"

The Russians headed by Minister Serge Niemchina have kept to themselves in one of Bangkok's leading hotels

However they have started an "information service and distributed their first bulletin to all Bangkok papers on June 22 in time to congratulate the people of Siam on the anniversary of the 1932 revolution

(The coup of June 24 1932 replaced Siam's absolute monarchy with a constitutional moparchy)

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

IT WAS a bright sunny morning in heaven.

St Peter yawned, pulled a cloud over his head to shade his eyes — but he couldn't get back to sleep There was an awful clatter at the gate

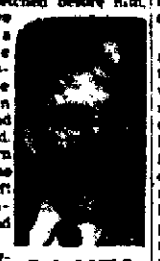
"This job would try a saint," he grumbled as he shuffled to his post "I'll be the death of me yet"

His keys clanged against the pearly lock He grunted, gave a mighty shove, the gate swung ajar—and heaven was open for business

St Peter took one long look outside

"Good heavens" he exclaimed It's just like the war again"

For there stretched before him, as far as eye could reach a dolorous line seeking admission. There were young in that line and there were old. Many had torn clothing some wore makeshift bandages stained with the red tide of life



HAL BOYLE

The line surged toward the gate

"Take it easy St Peter shouted There's no hurry All right all right Who's first"

"Me" said a fat little man importantly He gave his name St Peter scanned his big golden book His brow furrowed

"Why according to our records, you weren't due here until 1985" He ran his finger down the column

"Yep, that's right" said the saint 'Cause—pneumonia Year—1985 Right after your youngest boy is to graduate from college"

THE LITTLE MAN'S eyes grew misty

"What happened" asked St Peter gently

"I was driving home, and I tried to beat the train to the crossing," said the little man

"And—"

"I didn't" said the little man

"Tch' tch'" said St Peter crossly 'When are you mortals going to get over your immortal nonsense' Any more Sunday drivers'"

Down the long sad line hundreds raised their arms One hand still clutched a broken steering wheel St Peter shook his head

A small boy stepped up next you?"

"I'm Johnny" he said The old saint peered at his book

"Son, we didn't expect you here for another 60 years There were great things ahead for you down there You sang something the world needs"

"We sneaked off from the circus Johnny said "We didn't know he ate was sick"

A SMALL GIRL WITH an elfin face was next Her white dress was flame-blackened.

"My name's Mary" she said "I was naughty I heard the sparkler too close to my dress Where is my mama' She was with me at the parts I can't find her"

She started to sob St Peter silently motioned to an angel.

Hours later the line moved up to the gate At last St Peter said, "Next"

"What a gate to wind up at"

A voice voice answered dully "It was a holiday Everybody was celebrating

"Celebrating what'"

"Why Independence" the man replied

St Peter shook his head again "And what have you left your dependents to celebrate" Next."

And the line moved on

Katwe, a salt crater lake in Central Africa is of rose color which becomes crimson in the shadows

JUNIOR LEGION WINS 2 GAMES

Downs Mt. Vernon, 21-3, and Delaware, 4-2.

Two down and one to go is the way Nelson Irvin, coach of the American Legion Junior baseball team, looks at this holiday weekend schedule of games. The Junior nine asserted themselves in the first two games, swarming over Mt. Vernon Saturday 21-3 behind Jim Edington's three hit job, and edging Delaware 4-2 Sunday.

A victory over Newark today at Lincoln park (game time 1:30) will establish the locals as a definite threat to the Sixth district championship.

The youngsters jumped all over Barger who lasted five innings and Hall who pitched two before the game was called after seven innings, in pounding out 17 hits against the Mt Vernon lads. The Mounties got to Edington for five safeties in the seven innings.

Clyde Seedle registered 11 strike outs and issued only three walks as the Marionites connected for nine hits off Warner and Ruth of Delaware. He gave up seven hits to the Delawaite combine Jim Seiter and Dick Cramer worked behind the plate.

Ken Keltner Clouts 'Em

By The Associated Press

On his way to the best season of the ten he has spent in the majors in clouting Ken Keltner veteran Cleveland third baseman The 31 year-old star opened the season by belting home runs at a pace that would have given him 96 for the season. He's slowed down some but still leads the American League sluggers in circuit blasts boasting fourteen in mid June. Now Keltner is aiming for his previous home high of 26 posted his first year in the majors—1938. In these photos Keltner demonstrates the batting stance and follow-through that has made him the scourge of the junior circuit.

Chuck England's Stable a Threat In Races Here

Of the several Marion stables that will be represented in the 18 nights of Little Grand Circuit races which start here tonight probably the one with the most to look forward to is that of Charles D (Chuck) England whose Parlay Acres Farm Stables located in Marion county will send four good horses after a share of the $75,000 in purses that will be awarded in the three week program.

Three of the four last year won 32 dashes capturing over $10,000 in stakes in their season campaign on Ohio's half mile tracks.

The other is a promising colt Which One a two-year-old pacer Chuck has nominated for next year's Little Brown Jug in Delaware.

Hand Boss a three year-old pacer is nominated for this fall's pacing classic in Delaware. He's the favorite in tonight's fifth race a three-year old pace.

Hand Boss the highly bred son of Brookedale 1:59¾ Ruth Wyn 2 2:14¾ scored a record of 2:07 3/5 as a two year-old and was accurately timed in 2:09 4/5 in a race in his final start last year.

The pacer Hallelujah a shifty four-year-old daughter of Hal Dale 2:02¾ - Linn Grattan 3 2:07¾ earned a mark of 2:06, and was timed in 2:03 at Lexington last season.

An aged trotter the six-year-old Reny Law out of Vanity Lincoln by Peter at Law 1:59¾, holds a record of 2:05. Reny Law is another favorite tonight in the seventh race, a 15 class trot.

Chuck gives most of the credit for the fine record of his three campaigners last year to trainer and driver Walt Dispannete of Indianapolis Ind.

Dispannette will be wearing England's colors in the Little Grand Circuit sessions here this season.

HARRISON, HOGAN TIED IN TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

DETROIT July 5—Tall Dutch Harrison and tiny Ben Hogan were all locked up in a tie for the $2,000 top prize of the Motor City Open golf championship with 72 holes of 275 nine shots under par.

Hogan who closed with his second straight 66 and Harrison who finished with a four under par 67 will play it off over 18 holes today.

Harrison, 38 year-old "Arkansas Traveler" from Albuquerque N. M., who was tied at Bobby Locke of South Africa for the three-quarters lead came home first with his 35-32—67 finishing with six straight one putt greens for his 275.

While Harrison was sweating it out in the locker room Hogan went to work to catch him firing five birdies and 13 pars for his five-under-par 66 missing a 20-foot putt on the 18th green that would have returned him the winner.

Cubs Meet Lima in Split Doubleheader Today After Losing Pair

First Game at Lima, 2nd Here; Terriers Rout Bruins, 20-4, 9-7

The Marion Cubs, victims of Lima Saturday night and Sunday afternoon, meet the Terriers in a doubleheader today, the first game at Lima's Halleran park at 2 p. m. and the second at Lincoln park here at 7:15.

A 12-run third inning gave the Terriers the Saturday night victory, 20 to 4, and the big bat of a Lima recruit from Indian Lake gave them Sunday's win, 9 to 7.

Bob Adkins was the second victim in Saturday's rout, being hit liberally and giving up two walks in starting off Lima's big third. He was replaced by Jim Anderson, who walked three and gave up a hit before Jim Edgar came in to retire the side, some 12 runs later.

The Cubs had received a three-run gift in the first inning when Ray Magoto walked the first three men and hit the next two. Bill Behne replaced him with none out in the first and held the Cubs in check throughout the game.

The Bruins took an early lead in Sunday's game, scoring two runs in the first and second innings, but George Burton of Indian Lake, who was picked up in a White Sox baseball school last week and joined the Terriers Saturday night, put the Terriers out front in the sixth with a grand slam homer over the short right field wall. He homered again in the eighth with none on. He drove in six runs.

An oddity of the Cub scoring was that all the seven runs were made after two men in the inning had been retired. Manager Frank Kristie homered in the ninth with none on.

Ray Post was charged with the loss yesterday.

BOSOX BLAST A'S WITH 14-RUN INNING

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 5—With a modern major league record-matching outburst of 14 runs in a single inning, the Boston Red Sox broke a 3-3 tie in the seventh to gain a hollow 19-6 win over the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday before a skimpy 24,362 crowd.

Twelve of those markers were against 22-year-old relief pitcher Charlie Harris, who retired only one of the 13 batters who faced him during that horrible baseball nightmare.

Score of Trackmen Now Sure of Olympic Berths

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 5.—A score of men emerged yesterday out of the final Olympic tryout field as virtually sure of places on the American team that sails for London July 14.

Selection of the squad will be made Friday and Saturday at Evanston, Ill. It is shaping up as another powerful United States Olympic team, as strong as usual in the dashes and field events, and capable of winning 10 or a dozen firsts.

There will be 12 finalists at Evanston in each of 16 events, six coming from the National Collegiates held two weeks ago, and six from the National Amateur Athletic Union championships just concluded here. The first three finishers make the team.

The A.A.U. was open to the collegians and eight men succeeded in placing in the first three in both qualifying tests, which means only a major upset can keep them off the team.

Fortune Gordien of Minnesota won the discus in both meets, the only double victor. Sam Felton of Harvard was first in the hammer in the NCAA and second in the AAU. Roland Sink of Southern California had a third and a second at 1500 meters.

In addition to these, there are more than a dozen men who competed in only one of the two qualifying meets but two are so outstanding no doubt can be held about their ability to make the team.

Heading the list is Southern California's great sprinter, Mel Patton, a double victor in the collegiates.

Just as much a favorite is Charles Fonville of Michigan, who has done 54 feet, one quarter inch, in the shot. There was a disturbing report, however, that because of a sore back he only hit 46 feet, 8 inches, in a minor meet last week.

Harrison Dillard of Baldwin-Wallace, whose great string of 82 consecutive victories was broken here because he sacrificed his pride, in order to qualify both in the 100 meter dash and the high hurdles, should make the team in both of them. In the AAU meet he ran two heats and two finals in fast succession, and was beaten narrowly in both finals.

Others close to certainty are Robert Bennett, hammer; Marvin Eden, javelin; Francis Delaney, shot-put; Fred Johnson, broad-jump; George Walker, 400 meter hurdle; Willie Steele, broadjump; Herbert Barton, 800 or 1,500; Mal Whitfield, 400 or 800; Scooter Rucks, 400, and Barney Ewell, sprints.

SPRINGFIELD HURLER GETS NO-HIT GAME

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 5—Claude Nagy, Springfield southpaw, turned in the Ohio Indiana baseball league's first no-hit, no-run game of the season today when he stopped Portsmouth in the seven-inning second game of a doubleheader, 11-0.

Portsmouth won the nine-inning opener, 7-3. That loss enabled Muncie's Reds, who swept a twin-bill from Richmond, to regain first place by half a game.

Only two batters reached first base against Nagy, both on walks. Neither was able to get to second. The Springfield southpaw struck out seven.

Ray Berta of Springfield crashed a three-run homer in the third and Manager Bob Rath hit another three-run circuit clout in the seventh.

Manager George Staller of Portsmouth homered with one man aboard in the fifth inning of the first game.

Restaurant Man Has Red-Hot Hobby—Fires

By International News Service

CHICAGO — Sam Hollander, 34, is very unhappy with the restaurant business.

"I'm what the Fire Department calls a 'fire fan,'" Hollander explained by way of explanation.

"I couldn't become a regular fireman myself because of the missing finger (an index) he added.

Anyway, Hollander said, "I'm an ardent fire fan. I answer all extra-alarm fires."

To keep up with his avocation Hollander has a radio in his automobile, lunchroom and five cars at his home, all of which receive fire calls.

Hollander has all the necessary accouterments of a fireman, too. In his lunchroom he keeps a fireman's ax, helmet, boots, and a rubber coat. This set is duplicated at his home.

The genial, husky restaurant proprietor said his love of the fireman's life began when he was very young.

"I grew up next door to a fire station," he said.

I started running after the engines — or rather the horses — about as soon as I could run.

At first all I did was carry coffee to the firemen. Later I started to help drag the hose, and then to go right into the burning buildings and help battle the blaze.

A special pass from the Chicago Fire Department enables Hollander to ride to all fires on the trucks and engines of the city.

Hedges were such important parts of the old Roman gardens that those who cared for them and trimmed them were given a special, dignified title.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

The consensus of fourth of July oratory is that the country must be saved for posterity. And each orator knows just which party it must be saved by.

• • •

But this Fourth marked another year of independence of Britain . . . Except in financial affairs.

• • •

London sent its annual telegram to Washington marking the day . "Congratulations on your Independence from us wish we could be independent of you.

• • •

But in an election year it's difficult to tell what the 4th of July commemorates . I heard one orator tell how the Democrats took Bunker Hill from the Republicans.

• • •

Three blocks away a Republican was citing Benedict Arnold as an example of a man who left the right party for the wrong one.

• • •

But this is just the warmup for Labor day.
